June 2021

Dear Member,

This time of year, is always the club's busiest two months, but this year it seems even busier. We had our Young Bird Selection Show at the beginning of May, the results of this show appear later in this newsletter. Entries were down, which was disappointing but understandable due mostly to there being no Nationals again this year, due to covid in Victoria. This then left our Club with a very small team to compete for the Brian West Trophy at the Zone Selection Show, won by the Mackay Budgerigar Club, congratulations Mackay. Townsville and Cairns clubs decided to not send teams to the Zone Show which was also disappointing. I feel (and this is my view only) that if everyone had this mindset it would be very detrimental to our hobby. Our hobby is struggling to stay viable and we need to encourage new members, but if everyone had this apathetic attitude towards club shows and functions, we will drive members away.

Congratulations must go to a couple of our newest members, Michael and Shayla Evans who were very successful at our Young Bird Selection show. This was Michael and Shayla's first championship show and they managed to get a swag of birds selected to go to Mackay.

I had the pleasure of accompanying Scott Eriksen down to Newcastle to pick up birds from Breeders in that area for our auction. This was a great undertaking by Scott as without this trip we would not have been able to have these quality birds in our auction. Thanks must go to Scott for the immense effort he has put into organizing this auction, which was once again a great success both organizationally and financially. As this event is our main fund raiser it was great for some money to return to our coffers after not being able to hold last years auction due to covid.

We were able to debut the use of our new audio and visual equipment which we were able to obtain due to being successful with our grant application. A Huge Thanks must go to our three referees for their valuable help in obtaining this grant, Barry O'Rourke, Brittany Lauga and Neil Fisher, we appreciate their support of our club. Brittany kindly gave up her time early Sunday morning to officially hand over the equipment on behalf of the State government. Neil then attended later in the morning as he had a prior engagement to view the equipment and reiterate his support of the club.

Unfortunately, Barry was sadly unable to attend due to other electoral commitments, such is the life of politicians. Many positive comments were made on the day about how much the new equipment improved the running of the auction by visiting members from other clubs, with one club enquiring about how to access grants from the State Government with a view to purchasing similar equipment. We feel it will also greatly improve our shows as well.

On Saturday afternoon we had Dr Michael Evans present a very interesting lecture on bird nutrition to visiting bird fanciers as well as our own members. For those not in attendance Michael is one of this country's leading Avian Nutritionists. The lecture was most informative and I'm sure most, if not all in attendance gained much valued information to help them improve their bird's diets. The club would also like to thank Michael for his generous donation of products towards our raffle on the day of the auction. We would also like to thank the Australian Budgerigar Society members for travelling up from Brisbane with their club product stall. We hope they did well and it was worth their effort. We thank them for supporting us and donating a voucher to be used in their stall for the raffle.

On a less savory note, the Judges at the Mackay Zone Show commented on the dirty state of some of the show cages. Also, at our Young Bird Selection Show the judges made comment about the use of oversize screws in some cages. Members are reminded that cages are subject to the ANBC standard. In fact, the cage becomes an extension of the bird when showing and are both subject to the rules of showing. Oversized screws could be construed as a marked cage as could a dirty cage. Dirty cages could be covered in grime from being stored or covered in dry caked on droppings. If the former a wash soon rectifies the problem, the latter takes more effort. The droppings need to be scraped off, then the cage thoroughly washed and disinfected. By attending shows or other club functions with dirty cages you are contravening your duty of care by way of possible spread of disease. Please be aware of our Animal Welfare Guidelines. I recently attended a South Queensland show where two exhibitors had birds disqualified for having dirty cages. Their birds could of possibly ran a place, so don't let this happen to you.

In this newsletter you will find a great article by Graham Banks on one of our members, we are looking at making a member profile segment a regular feature. Don't forget our Lawn Show at Mt Larcom on Saturday July 3rd to be followed by a general meeting. The lawn show is always a great fun day, so bring along your birds and family and have a great social time.

We have our Annual general meeting coming up in August, so please give some thought to putting your hand up for a committee position or to just help out in general. I know a couple of committee members would like to step back a bit after serving in their positions for many years.

John Guinane and Adam Jennings have successfully earned the required points and are being elevated to Open show status. Congratulations to you both from the committee and members.

For anyone thinking of attending the BRASEA auction next month it has now been cancelled.

Cheers,
Russell Ogden

BREEDER PROFILE

Story: Graham Banks, Gary Gleadhill
Photos: Phill Bosci, Kev O'Callaghan, Adam Jennings

Gary Gleadhill

Gary and Dianne Gleadhill live in the picturesque agriculturally based town of Monto, Central Queensland. Monto has a population of just over one thousand people and derived its name from a Gureng Gureng Aboriginal word meaning "plains with ridges on them". Monto and surrounds are home to a number of historic, artistic and natural sites of interest including the Cania Gorge National park. The few times I have visited my partners family in Mulgildie I have always been impressed with how tidy and laid-back Monto was. If you are ever in the area I'm sure Gary would be only too happy to show you around his aviary and view some of his impressive Budgerigars, well worth the trip!

Phill Bosci recently travelled from Tannum Sands to visit Gary and I thought this would be a great opportunity to grab some photos of Gary's setup and birds and perhaps use these in a new series of breeder profile interviews I had in mind. As a bonus while there Phill also picked up some very handy violet's off Gary. Gary graciously consented to answering some questions and this series was born. I would like to thank Gary and Phill for their contributions. If everyone made it as easy as Gary did then filling aviculture publications with articles would be a breeze.

Gary how long have you been in Budgerigars and what got you first interested?

I've had Budgies since I was a kid growing up in Monto. I was first introduced to show budgies around the early ninety's when one of my mates showed me some show birds that he had bought, I was hooked from that moment on!

Gary Gleadhill at home in his aviary

How long have you been in living in Monto and what attracted you to Monto?

I've lived in Monto all my life. Monto is a lovely peaceful little town but gets bloody cold in winter and hot in summer.

Are there any problems, and solutions, or benefits you experience living in Monto with regards to keeping the budgerigars? For example, cold winters or hot summers or resourcing seed, travelling to shows, etc.

I suppose the main problem is the distance from the major centres and specialist budgerigar clubs. I have a long distance to travel for the show's and to catch up with the friends I have made in the hobby and meeting other club members. It can be a bit isolating and the distance would be the reason I don't get many other club members to visit me out here.

How many birds do you normally hold and do you think is this enough to develop a stud of exhibition budgerigars with limited outcrosses?

I currently have around 250 birds and I have developed my own lines from different birds I have bought, I haven't bought an outcross for several years now.

I notice you keep a number of varieties; do you have any favourites or ones that you find frustrating to progress show features on?

My favourite variety would have to be the Violets and Yellow Face's and the one I'm having the most trouble developing show features on is my Recessive Pieds, but I have bred some nice splits so fingers crossed for future improvements.

Grand Champion of Show, Champion Any Age Cock and Best Violet Gary Gleadhill October CBS Breeders Show 2019

Can you describe the foods and supplements the birds receive and your feeding routine?

I use Avigrain seed and my main diet consists of three seeds which are Canary, French White and Japanese Millet. The birds also get Hulled Oats and Stripped Sunflower seed supplementally. During the breeding season the breeding birds receive good old cod liver with wheatgerm oil in their seed mix which I let stand for at least twelve hours before feeding out. The breeder's soft food mix I make comprises boiled egg, sprouted mung beans, corn from a tin, grated carrot and beetroot, this is fed most days. All the vitamins and medication I use come from the vet Rob Marshall in Sydney, whom I have been using for years.

Clubs you are a member of –

I'm currently only in the Capricornia Budgerigar Society (CBS) based in Rockhampton, Central Queensland.

I often hear comments about the quality of the birds you show and how well they are presented, particularly some very strong Violets, Normals and Yellow Faces. Do you have any recommendations on preparing birds prior to showing? Any tips on maintaining and developing a strong line of birds?

I bring my birds in from the flight about one month before the show, feeding them extra foods and spraying them with aloe vera water to aid feather condition. Depending on the time I have available I also like to get the birds used to some training in the show cages.

Because I'm on my own here, I go with my instinct when I pair two birds together. Trying to keep the stronger lines I have developed together while always looking for improvement is something I strive to do. Having a second opinion at times when pairing and sorting out is something I miss. It's been my experience if two birds don't click together then you're wasting your time and they should be repaired with more compatible mates. When pairing, or culling, I place emphasis on facial features, department, bib length and width, quality down feathers and especially the overall look of the bird and how well it presents itself.

Do you believe that the birds breed better at different times of the year? Do you have a set breeding season or is this influenced by the bird's condition, ring issue date etc?

Because it gets so hot in Monto during the latter part of the year, I like to pair up at the start of March and then treat the birds in the cabinets for everything so that by the end of March I am ready introduce the nest box to the cage, initially with the nest box entrance hole blocked off. I only unblock the hole if I see the birds are active and ready to

Any tips on getting the birds to breed successfully?

How to get your birds to breed successfully is something I'd like to know myself. I have some lovely hens here but just can't seem to go down this year and can't seem to put my finger on why yet. I do feel that patience, good food and clean fresh water along with a nice clean environment goes a long way to furthering success.

I notice the dishes on top of your breeding cages and lights in the flights, can you describe your reasons for this?

I run the lights in the breeding room from 5am until 9am and again from 5pm until 8pm this is to give the parent birds more time for feeding. The dishes on top of the breeding cages contain water and this is to admit more humidity into the room, I find it very helpful in my situation.

Are there any birds you've brought in that have been particularly influential on your stud of birds?

You don't buy a bird if you don't think it can improve your stud. I've brought in a couple of lovely cock birds that have kick started my stud of birds that I now have. The most influential being the Violet I bought of Ernie Wise's at the CBS Rockhampton auction several years ago. It was a lovely bird and it was a sad day when this bird passed.

When bringing new birds in are there any recommendations you have before introducing them into your stud e.g. quarantine, test mating etc

It's a big must to quarantine any bird from outside of your stud. A lot of people have lost good birds because of this mistake, always quarantine new birds brought in. Treat them for everything before they are introduced to your stud.

What is your most memorable show moment?

My most memorable show moment would be winning Grand Champion at the CBS Breeders show with my Violet cock back in 2019. Also winning eight awards at the CBS 50th Anniversary show back in 2018 when Alan Rowe judged is right up there.

When looking for an outcross are there any features you particularly look for and likewise avoid?

When buying an outcross look for the features that your birds are lacking in, importantly know what you are looking for if you're not sure ask someone. I've had some great help especially from Kev O'Callaghan, top man and very knowledgeable. Avoid buying something that you already have.

There's been a bit of talk recently about the upcoming possibility of being able to import budgies into Australia again. Do you any views on this e.g. good, bad?

My views on importing budgies are that people with money will do wonderful but people like myself that have built a stud from a few birds will probably go under and just won't be able to compete with the new imports, probably leading to a loss of interest. This is only my view though.

What would your recommendations be for someone just starting out in the hobby?

People starting up, I reckon should pick a few breeders to buy from and build a line of birds based on those bloodlines before branching out too much. I think it's the one big mistake a lot of people make - buying from too many people.
